METHODISTS IN SESSION AT SAN BERNARDINO.

The Church Extension Anniversary Observed—Dr. Leonard of New York Present—Rev. G. W. James Withdraws from the Church.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 20.—(Special Correspondence of THE TIMES.) The anniversary of the Church Extension Society was held on Wednesday evening, Rev. E. W. Caswell presiding. After singing, the Rev. Dr. Cray led in prayer.

Rev. E. W. Caswell, in opening the meeting, said that all the various benevolent enterprises of the church are vitally connected with the great work of church extension.

The first speaker was Rev. A. Inwood, who said: "Methodism is Christianity in earnest. I wish to speak of three things bearing upon this question: What are the times in which we are living? What are the churches we are building?" The speaker believed that the socialism of today is a very hopeful feature of human destiny.

Rev. A. G. Park of Hansford next addressed the meeting. He said he believed the effort of our Extension Society to a point in every place in our land is one which promises untold blessing.

He spoke with great eloquence of the needs of our own land, and especially in the South, of buildings which are dedicated to the worship of God, and exist to spread the gospel of Christ. This, more than anything else, will make that portion of our land the sunny South indeed. Since the Church Extension Society began, three and a half million dollars have been expended, assistance being given in the various parts of our land. The Church of Rome recently ordained a colored man into her church. What does this mean? It means that if aggressive Protestant Christianity does not take hold of the South, Romanism will.

Rev. Dr. Leonard of New York gave a brief but most eloquent address. He said the Extension Society came into existence to answer a demand. We had sent out our missionaries, who had entered into the fold of Christ, but many more could not build churches. Hence the beginning of this society. The Doctor told his experience with reference to the marvelous growth of the church in our land. Since this society began, in 1864, no less than 14,000 churches have been built by Methodism. The great benefits of the church to the home, the community and the Nation were pointed out. The church, he said, was doing all it can to keep very close to the heart of humanity in this land, and if she only remains true to her faith and her God she will go on conquering and to conquer.

Thursday Morning's Session. Rev. Dr. Cobb led the devotional service.

The sum of $462.50 was set apart as a nucleus for an endowment fund for the superannuates.

The Committee on Examination of the Clergy now reported in the cases of F. M. Larkin, George W. Wood and Louis G. Spring, and they were advanced in their studies.

George E. Coe was discontinued on trial at his own request.

Charles W. Nicklin was continued in a supernumerary relation.

The Committee on Examination of the Third Year reported in the cases of S. P. Sowden, B. F. Wolf, J. C. Healy, A. Peterson, and they were advanced in their studies.

The Committee on Examination of the Fourth Year reported in the cases of Edwin J. Inwood, W. D. Lowder, R. S. Badger and J. O. Wahlsburg. Their characters were passed, and they were elected to elders' orders.

H. J. Crall was given a supernumerary relation at his own request.

Rev. Dr. Leonard of New York addressed the conference. The Doctor is an assistant secretary of the Missionary Society. He said the Missionary Society is the oldest benevolence in the church. More is given to it than to all the other benevolences of the church. Some say undue attention is given to missions at the expense of other interests. The Doctor replied to this charge. He said the Missionary Society being the oldest and largest, has prepared the way for other benevolences of the church.

But for our missions, not more than one-third the force we have in our conference could have existed. In speaking of the work in the South, he said that whereas at the time of the war we had not a member, now as the result of our northern missioners' work, we have 7000 students in our schools down there. The best thing you can give to any man is the gospel. It gives him a power which develops the very best that is in him, and this is the purpose of our Missionary Society. The address was a magnificent appeal for the advancement of this cause.

The result of the proceedings in the case of G. W. James was given to the effect that he withdraws from the membership and ministry of the M.E. Church, surrendering his parchments, which is an acknowledgment of his guilt, and tantamount to expulsion.

Rev. Dr. Cray of San Francisco addressed the conference.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock a special session was held, and a ministerial relief association was organized. A special session was also held to incorporate the Board of Trustees of the conference.

EAST SIDE.

Rev. Mr. Tinker's Lecture on the Old World.

A very large and appreciative audience was in attendance at the lecture last night given by Rev. W. W. Tinker in the East Los Angeles Baptist Church.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers, showing the regard of this people for their pastor.

The lecture consisted of a recital of experiences of the speaker during his recent trip to the Old World, of which mention has been made frequently in these columns. The incidents were many of them very amusing, and excited the laughter and applause of the audience. There were many passages that were tender and touching, and also much that was instructive as to the customs of England, France, and many interesting allusions to the world's great positions in the world's Sunday-school Convention, to which Mr. Tinker went as a delegate from Southern California.

One of the attractive features of this entertainment was the elegant views of London and Paris exhibited at the close of the lecture proper. Mr. Tinker has a superior lantern, and the effects are very fine. One could almost imagine himself in the streets of the old cities and looking upon their sights.

Mr. Tinker expects to deliver his lecture in other cities of Southern California.

LEONIS DEAD

From the Effects of His Accident—A Large Estate.

Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock Miguel Leonis, an account of whose injuries appeared in yesterday's Times, breathed his last. Deceased came to Southern California many years ago, and started in life on a sheep ranch as herder at very small wages. He proved to be a hard worker and saved his money. He bought land where he could, and stocked his places with cattle and sheep. As the country improved his land became valuable, and his estate is now valued at $750,000. So far as is known he has but two lawful heirs—his wife in France and his nephew, J. E. Goytino—although it is said by some of the dead man's friends that he was divorced from his wife and married to the Mexican woman who has lived with him for a number of years.

For months ago he had his nephew arrested on a charge of forging his name to a check for $3500, and the young man was held to appear before the Superior Court for trial. This case will probably fall to the ground, now that the prosecuting witness is dead.

Goytino is quite confident that he will get his share of the estate. He says that there is a will drawn up a few years ago which makes all his wife's property both remembered and the present Mrs. Leonis was cut off with but $5000. The chances are that there will be a hard fight over the distribution of the property, as heirs are always plentiful when the estate is dead.

It is Withdrawn from Lockwood's Court.

Yesterday in Justice Lockwood's court, in the Haack case, at the request of the District Attorney, the defendant was allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty and enter a plea of not guilty. The case was then dismissed, by consent of the District Attorney, on the ground that the case is pending in the Police Court.

Justice Lockwood stated to a Times reporter, in connection with the action taken, that Attorney W. T. Williams and Haack came to his office on the 17th to get a complaint. Mr. Williams stated that there had been a disturbance, and made out the complaint. He did not read the complaint through, and did not think there could be any question about it after Mr. Williams's statement. He said he did not swear Mr. Williams to the complaint according to information and belief, but in the usual form, and supposed the complaint corresponded.

CRUELTY TO A CHILD.

Jake Lola Charged with a Dastardly Offense.

Yesterday afternoon a lady called at the police station and reported a shocking case of cruelty to a child. She said that while coming up First street, at the corner of Anderson, she saw a man beating a little 6-year-old girl, knocking her down and then kicking her. She was taken before Judge Stanton, where she swore to a complaint, which was given to Humane Officer Wright to serve. Mr. Wright went out to the place, where he arrested the man and brought him to the station, where he gave the name of Jake Lola and was locked up. The fellow is an Italian and lives in the same neighborhood as the Bordalo child, an accused son of whose mother was punished in the Tribune yesterday morning. The case will be investigated by Judge Stanton, and if the facts are as represented the fellow will probably be given a long sentence.

MORALES SAFELY LANDED,

And the Officers' Pistols Were Not Tampered With.

Night before last the citizens of Oceanside were thrown into a state of excitement over the reported escape of Morales, the highwayman. It seems that Sheriff Aguirre took the horse thief down to San Diego day before yesterday and, by some means, the report got out that the Sheriff's pistol and also the deputy's had been tampered with by some of Morales's friends, and when Morales made the break for liberty the officers attempted to fire on him, but their pistols fired, and the desperado made good his escape.

Sheriff Aguirre returned home yesterday, and says there is no truth in the report, as he had Morales safe in the San Diego jail, and had no trouble with him whatever. It is strange how such reports get out.

THE TIMES is in receipt of the Mercantile Directory for 1889, which is a classified book of reference, showing the merchants, manufacturers, agents, brokers, importers, jobbers, wholesale dealers, lawyers and real-estate agents, banks and bankers, insurance companies, newspapers, colleges, schools and hotels of every banking town in California. It is a neatly-printed book, of over 600 pages, and contains a great deal of valuable information.

MASSACHUSETTS has been regarded as the greatest friend to education in the Union. But Kansas has one schoolhouse to every 185 of her population, while Massachusetts has only one schoolhouse to every 600 of its people. Is the old Bay State degenerating?

The whole of the sewage of Paris will be used for the purpose of market gardening. Grenville's new absorbents and fixtures a third of the Paris sewage water. Achives and Mery will soon utilize the rest.—Express.

Just so! It is pleasing, and yet surprising, to note that our late "outfall" contemporary is beginning to recognize the importance of putting sewage where it belongs—on the land.

Some conception of the immensity which our postal service has attained may be gathered from the statistics of the contract recently let for postal cards for the next four years. The estimated number of cards to be required for that period is 2,000,000,000 at a cost of about $800,000. The contract will require nearly 7000 tons of paper, or an average of about six tons for each working day.

The latest eastern item about California is:

A large farmer in California is very liberal to his hired hands, asking them for only nine hours work per day. But he demands that every one of them shall be paid by 9 o'clock.

It would be interesting to learn the exact location of this phenomenal farmer in a State where farm-hands during harvest time rise before Phœbus appears on the eastern horizon, and go to bed by candle light.

Some of our leading statisticians, who have been figuring on the probable increase of population, have arrived at the conclusion that the next census will show that we have 67,240,000 people in the United States. Gen. Meiggs looks as far ahead as 1890 to see what our posterity will number. Reducing his ratio to 33.3 per cent., so to allow for various convulsions, he brings the total up to more than twelve hundred million souls. He enters also into some speculation as to the increase of trade which will be necessary to supply this vast population with the necessities of life. Such an estimate is almost enough to stagger one with its vastness.

THE IMPROVEMENT OF WAGON ROADS.

We have made and are still making wonderful strides in the construction and operation of railroads in this country. Plans have recently been published of systems that promise to carry freight and passengers at from 90 to 300 miles an hour. Notwithstanding the great multiplications of railroads, however, it will be many years before wagon roads cease to play an important part in the economy of inland commerce, and the improvement of such roads is worthy of far more attention than it receives. In fact, the increase of railroads has given us, in many places, poor dirt roads, where formerly existed well graded pikes.

An interesting pamphlet on "Road Legislation for the American States," prepared by Dr. Jeremiah W. Jenks of Knox College, has just been published by the American Economic Association. It shows the enormous expense which these badly-constructed roads are to farmers. At present, field products are frequently unprofitable, when the point of production is distant several miles from the railroad receiving station. A careful estimate, based on statistics secured during the taking of the census of 1880, indicates that the average cost of hauling 100 bushels of grain is 60 cents. At this rate, in most of the western regions, where wheat is to be hauled from 18 to 25 miles to reach railroads or water, profits are reduced to such an extent that in many cases wheat-raising cannot be made remunerative. It is shown that it costs the farmer more to carry each bushel a mile than it costs the railroad to carry a ton. The following interesting table shows the differences of traction on various descriptions of roads:

1. On best stone trackways..... 12¢ lbs.

2. On a cubical block pavement..... .30 to 32 lbs.

3. On macadamized road of broken stones..... .65 lbs.

4. On a road covered with six inches of broken stone laid on concrete foundation..... .46 lbs.

5. On a road made with a thick coating of gravel laid on earth..... .16 to 17 lbs.

6. On a common road..... .200 lbs.

The point established is that a team can draw on a level, along any one of the better class of permanent roads, about four times the amount which can be drawn on a common dirt road in good condition, thereby reducing the cost of transportation three-fourths.

This subject is certainly worthy the careful attention of State Legislatures.

A moderate tax for the purpose of constructing good, permanent roads would very soon be indirectly repaid, many times over.

WARNER AND THE PENSION COMMISSIONERSHIP.

It looks very much as if Maj. William Warner was the coming man for Corporal Tanner's place. A dispatch from Washington announced that the President had summoned Warner to Deer Park for a conference. It is said that ex-Commander Warner would give general satisfaction to the old soldier.

He is in thorough sympathy with the old soldiers, but is a careful, clear-headed man of business, and in Grand Army matters gained the respect of every real friend of the order by excluding politics. When he was elected Commander he declined to accept a nomination to Congress for the reason that he would not drag politics into the organization. It would be a financial loss for Maj. Warner to accept the position, for he has an immense law practice in Kansas City.

The following accusation from the Atlanta Constitution may possibly have some foundation in the conditions prevailing in the Eastern States, but it fails altogether to apply to this section, where negroes enjoy every business privilege that is accorded to white men:

MILITARY ORDERS.

From special orders from department headquarters it is learned that the general court-martial convened at Fort Grant, Ariz., is authorized to sit during September and October without regard to orders either at Fort Grant or Camp Instruction.

TEALE HEARD FROM.

Mr. Huntington has given out quite recently that he has great faith in Southern California, and it is well known that fact since his recent visit to the coast, when he saw Southern California for the first time in many years, the California management of the Southern Pacific Company has been advertising Southern California as vigorously as the northern portion of the State. Before this order for general advertising of the whole coast, it will be remembered that the Southern Pacific people spent almost as much money in running this end of the line down as they did in running the northern end of the line.

It is believed by railroad men in this city that the Southern Pacific Company has fully determined to either abandon the San Joaquin or to build a new line there the way that city is built in winter.

If they build a new road, there will be two lines of China steamers running into San Diego in less than two years, for the Santa Fé people have fully made up their minds to bring the Peninsular and Oriental steamer to the city of Bayncliffe to stand on their roads in Southern California.

Another Schooner Escapes the Bush's Vigilance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press.) The sealing schooner Beatrix, Capt. McKell, arrived from Bering Sea last night with 130 sealings. The Beatrix left Bering Sea August 29th. The Captain has sighted the United States steamer Rush.

On August 16th he lost three canoes, each containing two Indians, who were unable to find their way back to the ship from the fishing grounds on account of fog. He remained in the neighborhood five days, burning lights at night to warn off whalers. The Captain thinks, however, they were picked up by a schooner which passed about that time.

PEOPLE'S STORE.

"ONE PRICE AND SPOT CASH" THE GOLDEN AXIOM.

The Question of Paying Cash in Credit Stores Discussed—Why You Should Patronize the People's Store.

People's Store.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21, 1889.
To the golden axiom of trade, "One price and spot cash," A. T. Stewart, Esq., the merchant prince of the world, attributed his signal success. That others who have followed in his footsteps and learned by his experience have accomplished a similar victory is quite natural. But the fact remains that the master of things, who desire to rise above that of the petty shopkeeper, must hoist the banner of "One Price and Spot Cash" to the masthead, and, if need be, spike it on and retain it there.

To the persons who pay cash for their wares and never go in debt, or incur by buying that purchasing for cash in a credit store, there live up to the correct principles, but like poor Richard, "he paid too dear for his whistle." So they can say nothing by expediting their cash where prices are already made for long-term credit.

Therefore it behoves you to trade where no credit is given, where no losses are sustained, where no need exists to charge a good-paying, cash customer extra to make good the losses of those that never pay—in fact, trade only where your hard-earned eagles are safe. It is over the greater part of the People's Store, the component of the true genuine cash system, is well known to all. Lowest rates, popular prices, honest values, are the results of the above principles, and to end cash-paying customers recognize us as the place to do their trading, for they know that their interests and ours can be traced to the same action of the "One Price and Spot Cash."
